Here are a few flies I've tied today following no particular pattern. The first one looks horrible, i know, but the following one looks a little bit better I think. They are mostly made of left over trout maribou and some flash on a size 8 hook. And is the crafting eye thing a good idea? I saw it on a Dave mcfluffchucker video. Give me your honest opinions. If they suck I want to know so I can improve.
