zfish, they look good; but on a size 8, they're a bit undersized for toothy-specific fishing. As for the eyes...I say stick w/ em. Some say they act as a strike-trigger; but I think eyes just look good on any streamer.

Take what you've learned, and apply these techniques as you up-size to new/larger flies. Experiment with different materials, test them out, and you'll find what you like best. Good luck.

Thanks for the info. I tried to tie them on a size 2 hook, but they didn't fit in my cheap cabelas vice. Ehh, if I catch bass on them so be it. I'll just have to get a new good quality vice.
