Wow. Those flies are huge. And it looks like there is like $20 worth of material in those. haha. By the time I get a better vice, hopefully my tying skills will be better so I can tie stuff like that. And is it true the uglier the better? I was told that on another forum regarding larger toothy flies. Also, would i be able to just take the crafting eyes off one and connect it to make one fly out of two while adding feathers and such over the eye of the other hook?
