Cornholio, did they just dump the fish in a few holes by the pumphouse and maybe farther down off of 62 also or did they try to spread them around a bit?

I'd imagine they'd spread themselves out, especially since they're smaller and probably more of them, but if they're like the adult stocked fish there they might just stick to the couple holes they're stocked in. But then again those holes are of the few decent holes in the whole regs section. Habitat improvement would really help!
