It'll be interesting to see how this will all work out. Even though I'd rather see the stream not stocked, imo I still think stocking fingerlings may be better. We'll just have to wait and see.

Either were going to be fishing for sardines or maybe some of the fingerlings will grow into fish that closely resemble wild fish.

I was going to ask about the fin clippings, but I re-read the thread and found my answer. I've caught fingerling stocked fish(well, a little bigger than fingerlings) in Neshannock and Cool Spring Creeks that were stocked by the local TU chapter and when they got bigger they looked very much like wild fish. I'm glad they're fin clipping them since there are wild fish as mentioned already in Little Sandy and I'm sure some of the other streams.
