

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : winter fly fishing

Re: winter fly fishing

Author: : PennypackFlyer

Date: : 2012/11/29 16:19:10

URL:

For most of the time I will use a prince haired nymph - usually the larger the better. I will run the nymph on a dry fly dropper line about 3' in my location. It will vary somewhat depending on water depth. The trick is you have to slow everything down for the most part during winter season. Look for deep pockets with slack water with just a little current around it. And if you practice catch and release you can keep coming back to the same spot and catch the same trout throughout winter.