I carried both fly and spin tackle. It seems I was catching a lot of the smallies on flies and a lot of the walleyes on spin gear with a few here and there on flies. Big stonefly and hellgramite nymphs, black wooly bugger (dead drifted), and krystal buggers accounted for a lot of fish. The river is wadable in some spots, but you need to pick your areas carefully. From just north of the Isle of Que boat launch and up I wouldn't suggest wading even when the river is at 3.1 at Harrisburg, as it is pretty dang deep from there up in most areas. The train bridge at the Isle of Que is my cutoff point when it comes to wading.
