anyone know what happened to hatchmag.com

have been reading it religiously for a few years and it just stopped being updated.....I know they went to yellowstone maybe they got eaten by a bear?

Glad to hear you had been enjoying the site. More of whatever it was we were doing to come.

No one was eaten by a bear (not even a bear sighting, in fact), nor was anyone dispatched a cease and desist or any other such things.

The site was in hibernation for a period due to a number of complications, which included 4-5 weeks of complicated server issues and a longer period of being tied up with a new, entirely unrelated project that has turned out to be quite the albatross (<http://whohas.it>).

A few things went up recently, and expect more, very soon, including the stuff from Yellowstone.
