NewTyer,

I have a Chota made, Cabelas branded pair. I think size 8.5, but have to double check. They are felt soled with studs, though the studs are worn down. They're just hex screws, you can replace them cheaply.

Almost like the STL's, they are nice boots, though reasonably heavy for wet wading boots. These are HEAVILY used, scuffed like crazy and very well "worn in". But have not yet fallen apart and are usable. They could fall apart on the next outing or last you 2 more years, I dunno. They were my main pair for 2 years and I replaced em, still use em on occasion when I want felt. But I'd be willing to part with them for a good home.

While I need a 9 wt, that isn't a fair trade, and you wouldn't have to part with yours. I'll give the boots to you if you want em.
