

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Donegal Creek, Lancaster Co, 12/1/12

Re: Donegal Creek, Lancaster Co, 12/1/12

Author: : salmonoid

Date: : 2012/12/9 23:37:13

URL:

Quote:

dc410 wrote:

Excellent! Glad your boy got into one on his own. The fall stocking program there is a great opportunity for you to get the youngsters into some of those eager 'bows. Welcome to the PaFF forum!

The 'bows caught are likely not part of the fall stocking program (which has now seen the last stocking for the foreseeable future on this stream). The 'bows are part of the experimental "fingerling" stocking of fish, to see if they take on that stream; I think its one of five or so in the state that they are testing out with fingerling stocking. I didn't turn up a single holdover fish from any stocking when I fished the stream last week; fingerlings were about like smolts on the Erie tribs - small, annoying, and getting in the way of anything else (if any holdovers were around).