Fished the WB up in SGL13 last week. Nice habitat up there. Caught one 7" wild brown in about 2 hrs of fishing. I suspect the popn. density is low in that reach. Just below the Game lands, through the villages of Elk Grove and Central, the channel is filled with cobble (huge bars), I suppose mostly from the hurricane of September 2011. Or perhaps that reach is just generally subject to deposition. A local guy in the general store said that portion of the stream dries up in summer (flows under the bed of cobble and boulder), before re-emerging DS near Route 118.
