

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : little lehigh Dec 9th 2012

Re: little lehigh Dec 9th 2012

Author: : sandfly

Date: : 2012/12/13 15:48:09

URL:

Oh my the scuds were thick in years past. I remember the sulfers too..huge caddis hatches all the way through july. I think when they started building upstream from the turnpike the change started..

Bushkill in Easton has fallen by the wayside also. the fly stretch used to be up stream a few miles and there good hatches and nice wild browns near Tatamy and Stockerton.