

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : fishing delaware river

Re: fishing delaware river

Author: : Love2fish

Date: : 2012/12/16 9:32:45

URL:

Tides don't reach up there they end just north of Morrisville, at least they aren't noticeable. But a two hander could prove very effective that's why there is one on my Xmas list. If you do get into the tidal water it really depends on what time of the year for a given tide stage. Early (for stripers march april) when water is still mid 40's to low 50's I prefer sunny days with high around dark. Once the water is consistently into the 50's any tide will catch.