They were rather small about 6 to 8". At first I thought they were escapees from one of the state's hatcheries. You can definitely tell when you have a rainbow on, they zip around a lot.

I caught 15 two weeks ago so I if they are escapees it was a significant release. Were there any problems during Sandy with the state hatcheries?

I noticed with the changes in the outflows at Benner Spring and Bellefonte there seems to be less of these fish in the stream.

I still get a bunch of rainbows near Milesburg which I am assuming originate from Bald Eagle Creek migrations.

I don't think there was any problem with the state hatcheries from Sandy. The water was not that high here.
