

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Tippet Preferences

Re: Tippet Preferences

Author: : dryflyguy

Date: : 2007/1/29 18:12:05

URL:

I've been using Orvis super strong ever since it came out and have really found nothing better yet. I tried the flourocarbon when it first came out, and definitely had more breakoffs with it. I've read that they have improved it since then, and probably should try it again. I should also point out that I've always used improved clinch knots to tie on my flies, - and there are stronger knots that I should probably use. I did try the Froghair, and don't care for it either