I tried to blog this year to force me to write down some things about my trips and have an easy way to search for things. I made a few posts, but didn't keep up with it too much. It turned into a pitch for my new company and has gone dark ever since. Maybe I'll start it up for fishing trips again next year, or I might just go old school and keep a journal. I bought a journal a few years ago and I think the only thing I wrote in it was my name.
