I've had the blog itch lately...This is due mostly from reading other blogs. I've learned that by posting a few longer forum "how-to's" and project posts that I like doing these type of things. So with all that in mind, a 2013 goal of mine is to post 2x month on my blog. No real aspiration to make money, put ads, do product reviews, etc...Although I have written down several ideas for posts and product reviews have made the list. Although, I think it would be with products I purchase myself. At this point now, this is more of a "self improvement" project, rather than a job or media outlet.

Always interested in hearing ideas and different themes that other use in blogs, for spin-off ideas.
