my favourite blog is small stream reflections - it's a retired guy from CT who fly fishes small brooks for wild brookies.

he normally fishes 2-3 times a week year round, and the photography is just stunning, and he nearly always takes pics of his homemade streamside lunches as a finish.

he is also a very accomplished 'Rangely' style streamer tyer.

imho, his blog is the best on the net - a real gem, and its worth going back through his 3 year history just to see the photos.

Mark.
