Irish- not fishing far from my car? Really, I don't even want to start with you. You must be one of the ones with those oversized vest. Carrying things you will never need. I only take with me what I will use for a particular outing. Keep it simple. I fish more in a month then most do in six months.

I fish everything from very small mountain streams to several limestoners to large streams. I carry anything I may need at any one of those streams, therefore I carry more gear than maybe the average guy. The advantage though is I can be ready to fish anywhere with five minutes notice. I do agree that lanyards are nice for certain situations but not for all. As far as the amount of fishing you do are you bragging or complaining? I think I fish more than the average guy, so what does that have to do with anything.
