The road to emmaus was fine it was the road back home from emmaus to western ny that was the tricky one. Yesterday was a treat driving across pa in a blizzard... and detoured 2 times in the Allegheny national forrest...

Also a side note: I was at the Lehigh fly shop, parked at the parking corral thing... usually put my ebrake on always. Well that time I forgot, prob distracted by all the fly guys n seeing the shop....

Went to leqve and for some reason this really old couple decided to walk inbetween my truck n that parking rail... not thinking anything of it, pushed in the clutch to start my truck, and guess what was not engaged?!?!?! Yeah after thier eyes shrank back to normal, man did I get some dirty looks(but why the hell were they walking on the vehicle side of the rail?!?!?!?!?).

Scared the hell out of me and them.
