Did any one notice the Simms G4 waders at the show this past week-end? I have to admit the truth....I stood at the Simms booth looking at those waders thinking about how easy it would be to relieve myself warring a pair of waders that all you had to do was un-zip. No more taking off the vest, jacket, and pulling down my waders. I started to see the value in the ease of mother nature's call.

Then TimMurphy pop into my mind. If Tim saw me fishing with a pair of $700 waders he would think I had a "screw loose" Maybe that was not so bad.....easy access???.....then the thought occurred to me what would be Tim's post on this forum when he returned home. That was the deciding factor.

So, to Tim....thank you save me a bunch of $$$$$. 😁
