You're in, Marc.

From what Gaeron told me, the kids all have their own gear. They may not have everything needed to set up a rig that you prefer, but it likely won't take much of a contribution from the instructors to get them going. They might not have the flies you'd like to teach them to fish though. I'm guessing maybe a couple flies, split shot, tippet, and maybe a strike indicator would be the max. Probably not even that much.

Treat this as you would if you were taking a friend out fishing for the first time - that should be pretty close to what we'll need to do. Just bring your normal gear to fish with.

Some of these kids don't have wading gear, so those that don't will be bank fishing. The Little Lehigh where we're meeting is ideal for this.
