Let me know the next time any of you guys go to the manada. I would be happy to provide my "expertise" on that stream. I know every inch from the army base to the swatty.

The rainbows pictures are def not strem bred fish. Holdovers for prolly a year of two. I have caught holdie bows that have fins sharp enough to cut glass, white tipped fins an so on an so forth. The stream bred bows I have caught have been palm size at best, same with the browns. But with the browns if there is small ones the stream is doin good, an if there is small ones there is bigger ones.
