Laurel Highlands Hike In

I just starting fly fishing last spring and have stuck to Mill Creek and Linn Run in the Laurel Highlands. I am wanting to explore and looking to go somewhere in or close to Laurel Highlands or Bedford Area and would prefer some more remote options. I understand that people can be protective of "their spots" so I'm not asking for anything specific but I would be happy if anyone could point me in the right direction. I would love a few miles of hiking to a stream or headwaters. I am from the Johstown area and love this region. I consider myself to be an ethical conservationist so I will treat any leads you give me with much respect. Thank you very much.
