I've seen a pink fly work like magic at times on the streams here in Pa , a pink Matuka a friend was fishing with , in the middle of winter , although it was a little warm and rainy was bringing him fish the whole way accross the stream , on Clear Shade creek in Somerset county , native brookies and wild browns on almost every cast , i could not believe it , normally at this time of year you have to be pretty close and slow with your fly , these fish were coming 20'.
