

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : outer banks

Re: outer banks

Author: : CatchingChrome

Date: : 2013/1/10 12:20:22

URL:

Some of the best action you can have is with a flyrod right in the surf at hatteras Village. I have been fishing both on shore and offshore there from over 35 years. That time of year you should be able to catch nice pompano in the surf. I like to use small shrimp patterns in the first surf break. Sometime less than 10 feet from the beach. Best time is the first hour of when the tide is going out or coming in. You will catch flounder, pompano, and even some small redfish. Look for areas that have alot of sandfleas or a small rip going back into the surf. Water clarity is key as well. Some of the areas, the water is less than 2 feet deep. I just cast in let the fly sink and jig/bring in really slowly. I have caught up to 30-40 fish in an hour sometimes. If the bite is slow with the rod, a simply bottom rigs made out of 10# test and small gold hooks with a 1 ounce weight and small pieces of shrimp is second to none.