I hope I'm putting this in the correct place. I was wondering if some of you anyone can give me some advice on how to get my 9 year old started on the fly. I've read several articles, but I'd like to hear some real life success stories. Also, what size/wt combo would be a good starter? I have a great pond near my house loaded with smaller bluegills, stockies, and catfish. Any advice on how to go about this? He has interest, and I want to make sure I start him off the proper way. Having never spin fished (he usually just let's line out right off the dock, no casting) he won't have to deal with what I call the "unlearning curve" I'm dealing with right now.
