Thanks to all for the help in this thread, PM's and emails. Found 2 spots in the poconos yertday AM but was only able to to fish one as I had issues with access, posted land, etc ... think next time I'm going to find/hit some that are in public forests. By 11:30 - ish got a lil frustrated and headed down to the LL.

Good for you Stagger. There are some real nice streams to explore up there.

It's best to do your research with maps, NR listings, etc., and always include a Plan B and C in case the stream is posted, not fishable, or not productive. Streams running through public land are always a good bet to at least assure accessibility.
