FWIW Fade, you may want to check with the campground as to whether they allow this (since your intent is posted on the web now). In the event someone from the site is interested in the cabin for the Jam, it might be better for them to just PM you and then call Seven Mountains and let them know what's up. I'm sure they could do a cancel/rebook, and would probably prefer this...and a Jammer still gets the cabin. All you'd be out at this point is the administration fee ($35 I think). You could even ask them to waive/reduce the administration fee since you found a new renter.
