

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : New road stuff.

Re: New road stuff.

Author: : Chaz

Date: : 2013/1/16 13:39:24

URL:

It is often sprayed on vehicles by cars and trucks running through before it has time to dry and thus rendered useless. When dry the dust is picked up by tires and ground into fine dust that get's in my sinuses and cause me great sinus distress.

I don't believe it does a bit of good to pretreat roads for these reasons, it gives Penn Dot reason to not plow when they should, something they've always tried to shirk responsibility for, at least in SE PA.