

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Egg Pattern Presentation Question

Egg Pattern Presentation Question

Author: : L_soult

Date: : 2013/1/18 22:55:15

URL:

I'm still pretty green, but I was clueless when Sasquatch let me use one of his egg patterns. I was still trying to take it all in and didn't have the foresight at the time to know the right questions to ask. He showed me just what to do but I was still in awe of the whole FF thing I didnt quite pick up what he was throwing down.

I made a few soft egg patterns today (out of small craft store puff balls on a hook) and they look like store bought egg patterns to me.

Now I'm trying to visualize how I'm going to use them.

Common sense tells me that in nature an egg wouldn't bounce down a stream bed like a nymph would. Maybe a double rig with weights on each tippet to keep them in place? My logic may be way off on this.

On the other hand, movement attracts attention.

Could someone please tell me the best way present these eggs?

Also, I already put them on hooks but a size recommendation would be appreciated. The eggs are 1/4" in Diameter.

Launce