

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Toothy Critter Success Thread

Re: Toothy Critter Success Thread

Author: : zfisher

Date: : 2013/1/19 18:06:03

URL:

I got out to the Susquehanna for the first time with my 10 weight today. I caught the skunk as I expected but did have some action.

The fly I was using was a maribou and bucktail base with flashabou. The third or fourth cast I threw it out to a break in the surface which I presume was a rock. Right as the fly went by the rock I saw a biggish splash were my fly would have been. I attempted setting the hook but it was too late. I had fun and learned alot even though I went fishless. Pumped for spring now though.