That movie reminds me a lot of my brother, dad and myself, despite going down different paths at times in our lives, we could always come back and fly fish

That movie inspires me to fly fish more, like I mentioned in the OP. Sas, lots of good stuff in that movie. The dad's a pastor who goes fishing as much as he reads the Bible?

How fly fishing brings fams together. How God's wonder is there in those beautiful Montana streams?

I don't like to read a long word filled book that much? Way too much "filler" for me! If they had a "Cliff's Notes" version of A River runs through it, I might read that?
