

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : From the minnow chaser thread - An ethics lesson

Re: From the minnow chaser thread - An ethics lesson

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2013/1/20 10:57:41

URL:

I dunno, Mo. The bold text in the quote below makes it sound like it's not ethical to fish streams that only hold small fish, which btw, are many of the small brookie streams and headwaters in PA.

Quote:

If the brook trout water you are fishing yields fish that are generally sub-legal in size here is where a lesson in angling ethics will come in handy. I'll make it blunt and to the point.

Deliberately fishing for 5 inch trout is not ethical, period. An ethical angler who finds his/herself repeatedly hooking sub-legal fish will always seek greener pastures, so to speak.

We (or at least "I") need Tim to clarify.