Been up there a bit,a 9' 5 weight will work but a 9' 6 weight is also a must have backup, big water, wading staff is a must as is IMHO a pull cord type of inflatable life vest.It's very dark water you will not see bottom easily.

Also depending on flows it is or can be treacherous,I am a very confident /good wader, this river demands respect. If you are headed up.

Don't forget to bring a smaller rod too for the smaller brooks/creeks. A 7'6" 4 wt will work out good as will an extra spool for a five weight line in case you get some good breeze in the woods.

What time is your trip planned for?Be sure to read the reg book, alot of waters have diffrent regs.Black flies and skeeters can also make you miserable too.Might want a head net , long sleeves. ect. need any info PM me.
