3 flies isn't that bad when all your doing is water hauling for the most part. The coiled sighters are fairly easy to make. made a few a couple years ago and only used them a few times. I need to revisit that this year.

To make the coil, just wrap a high viz piece of mono on a pencil, pen, etc and boil it for a few minutes. Take it out and instantly put it in an ice bath. Tie a perfection loop on either end (probably best before you boil). There ya go.
