

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Goose Biots

Re: Goose Biots

Author: : mike_richardson

Date: : 2013/1/21 14:44:44

URL:

I get mine from hairline and have not to many complaints. When you buy them from a fly shop, open them up and make sure the quality is good. Take them out of the package and have them "stand on end" this will let you see that they are not too thick or there are not too many that are too thick. Or too thin for that matter. They can be tricky to work with. And I find myself messing up a few tails now and again.

I see a lot of guys just grab a pack and go. this can be a big mistake. Especially with pheasant tail.