Okay, the 2013 Brookie In-Service Day will be Saturday, February 23rd, weather permitting. I have a centrally located stream in mind and will PM each of you with said stream although all but Bob could probably guess it. My son is checking his schedule to see if he can help us out. If not, my still camera does video and my current card will let me do a little over an hour. If any of you guys have better suited equipment, that would be great. With the experience of this group, I think the newbie's will get a quality presentation that will really impact their learning curve. Oh Bob, make sure to charge the batteries on your Dog tied brookie flies that way they will show up better on camera.
