I bought the CCG thin in a bottle and the hydro in a bottle. I would like to try the syringes to see if they are more precise than the bottles.

Are those the brushable kinds?

I just bought the kit, and I think I ruined one of the syringes already (1st sitting). They are precise...but being a fresh tube, the glue would leak out until I reversed the pressure on the syringe. Eventually, I pulled the whole syringe piece out of the tube where the glue is stored...now I cant put them back together without the stuff leaking out one side or the other, so I capped it and have it sitting upright as we speak.

Anyway, Im kinda wondering if the brushable is the way to go. Otherwise the product works great.
