Thanks for the kind word Mike. I've got people all over the country and even the world saying very similar things about our products. I've been using them for a little while longer and can say I'm very pleased with how everything came out and their performance.

The weight difference in our reels is mainly due to materials used. Our machined aluminum reels will typically weigh a bit more than some that have plastic components. Either way ours will not only out perform those reels, but out last them too!

Accessories and fly boxes will be in by about 2 weeks. A little spoiler of a sale... 2 zingers, nippers and hemos for $15 total for a week once they come in stock!
