I lived in Perry county for 12 years , that area is one of the most beautiful in the state , most of that above the town of Blaine is Shermans creek watershed. The trout fishing there is real good just about anything you pick , do some exploring. Above New Germantown , which is where Fowlers Hollow is can't be much better. While you are there i suggest you visit the Hemlock Natural Scenic Area , a virgin stand of huge hemlocks , that has a plunge pool trout stream running straight up and down through it. The fishing is tough , more like mountain climbing , but very good. HAVE FUN !!!!!!! And enjoy some of the purtiest contry in the state.....watch out for the Amish Mafia.
