when i used them i just heated them with a lighter. I have gotten away from using them. Putting a small loop in your fly line is a better option. Or attaching a 6-8" piece of mono with a nail not to the fly line and a perfection knot on the other end to attach your leader to witha loop to loop connection.

I like to make loops, but if you do use the shrink sleeves, try heating it up by holding it on an incandescent light bulb (the old-fashioned bulbs). A lighter will melt the sleeve and/or your line and/or your fingers.
