Great info, Phish!

I have always stopped where the signs promising death and taxes start up. The fishing beyond that, the one or two times I continued on, was poor. Not sure why they would stock that far up.

Manada closer to the ATW is a lot more fun, but of course you encounter less and less wild fish with each step down. Never caught a wild bow there, but I am sure there's a few.

Also, a tip for the stream - My luck has always increased if weather is about to hit or already has. Other streams might sometimes improve, but Manada has always produced for me when weather was on the way.
