Heritage, the 2488 is a scud hook I think. What's your thinking using them for trico spinners? The short shank? I'm always looking for an edge.

I think of the 2488 as more of an emerger/pupa hook. Yes it has a short shank, hence using a size 22 for a fly that is a size 24 in length.

The big advantage to this hook is the large hook gap. It's also a fine wire hook, as opposed to the 2457.

Try it out - I think you'll be pleasantly surprised.
