Don't use a lighter! I learned that the hard way. It doesn't make a very secure connection. Let's just say I almost lost a whole leader to a false cast... Like a couple other guys said- I like tying some heavy mono to the line with a nail knot, then use surgeon's loops for a loop to loop connection to the leader. I like "amnesia" 20 or 30 lb test - it's high vis so you can use it as a sort of indicator. The nail knot's really strong, but kind of a pain to tie, so I think this is a good compromise.
