I don't think the hook is going to be open. They are not selling buggy passes and I think it's still a mess. I also know they have a problem with some missing explosives. There was an article about a surf fisherman who found eight live grenades in the area. I don't think they are making much progress to cause the money is tied up with congress. That being said I think the furthest ire gonna get is Monmouth. Theirs always IBSP. I personally like it better. More options and structure.

SH doesn't have beach buggy access . Also they have only found a dummy round since the storm and it wasn't in the actual park . I was told there goal was to be open in May .
