The real issue is the stream has been heavily fished over the last 2 years and the fish are now just incredibly spooky from the all pressure. And they have seen it all tossed at them.

Its like night and day but, thats old news we just cant change.

You can still catch'em. Just not as eager to take yer fly.

Used to have to work to get to them and then the fishing was relatively easy. Now its easy to get to them and the catching is work.

Scuds and sculpins.
