Mike It is a very admirable thing to imagine that the Conemaugh could be restored to it's pre=devastated condition , but also a very daunting task. Not impossible , look at the Stonycreek , the other stream that flows together to form the main stem of the Conemaugh at the "Point" Stadium in downtown Johnstown. If you get a chance sometime stand at the "Point" and look at the difference of the two waterways flowing together there , they both used to look like the Conemaugh. One of the folks responsible for the condition of the Stonycreek is Len Lichvar a local who is now a member of the PFBC , it might save a lot of time if you start by trying to speak to him , they started their efforts on Stonycreek above rt 30 in the tribs around Shanksville and worked downstream to what you can see at the "Point" GOOD LUCK and count me in.
