All the naysayers will tell you you'd be better off to buy a used rod at a garage sale but I for one will tell you to get a Sage or other high end rod of your choice. Necessary to success and catching fish? No. But if you want one and can afford it go for it. You'll have the thing for the rest of your life and if you have a good trip to Montana the rod will remind you of that everytine you use it afterwards.
