Fade, are you comfy casting your fenwick? if so, just use it, better to have a rod you're comfortable using instead of something you just bought. Now, if you really want a new rod, go out and cast a bunch, don't just pop down big dollars because someone says this rod is a must to catch fish, that is total BS. Cast a bunch and buy the one that YOU feel comfortable casting, not what others think or what the marketing people tell you. Just because it's 800 bucks, doesn't mean it's gonna be a miracle rod, heck, you might not even like it. and trust me, there have been plenty of montana trout caught on fenwick rods!
